I'm so excited to share this post with you! You see, I've been a little worried about Haley for the past year. She's always been a very energetic and athletic dog but after recovering from a stretched CCL (similar to a human's ACL) two years ago, she hasn't been quite the same. Her CCL healed and tightened back up, but not long after that, she developed arthritis in the injured knee.

As we know, Adderall is a stimulant that keeps you awake and active from 8 to 10 hours, it is also widely prescribed for ADHD. Xanax on the other hand is used to treat anxiety and has a very calming effect. It's not wise to take both drugs together and I have no idea why anybody would ever want to do such a thing? It would be so much better to take them to work on each other or to work for each ...
