A space elevator is a proposed type of planet-to-space transportation system. The main component would be a cable (also called a tether) anchored to the surface and extending into space. The design would permit vehicles to travel along the cable from a planetary surface, such as the Earth's, directly into space or orbit, without the use of large rockets.

In 2010, Li-salts were introduced as leachable corrosion inhibitor in active protective coatings for the protection of aluminium alloys [1]. Several studies have demonstrated that Li-leaching coatings provide fast, effective and irreversible corrosion protection in a coating defect and the technology is regarded as a promising environmentally friendly alternative to the toxic chromates [2, 3].
