Wednesday, November 9, 2011. Turkey Glyph Our Turkey Glyphs have replaced our Pumpkin Glyphs on our closet doors! They are so cute I am sad they will only be up for a couple of weeks. Glyphs are not just arts and crafts (even though they are really fun to make!) They are a form of data interpretation.

Ms. Gilbert's Crew: Turkey Glyph

We worked with a partner to come up with a question that we were interested in asking another class in our school. Then we surveyed, tallied, graphed and made hall displays of the data to share our findings. We used Google Slides to publish our results. Finally, we analyzed our data and wrote up a few observations of the data.
