The situational theory of leadership suggests that no single leadership style is best. Instead, it all depends on the situation at hand and which type of leadership and strategies are best-suited to the task. According to this theory, the most effective leaders are those that are able to adapt their style to the situation and look at cues such as the type of task, the nature of the group, and ...

Importantly, the three frameworks developed for this study (based on theories of Flagestad & Hope, 2001; Hall, 2000; Weaver, 2000) provide generic categories or scenarios for investigation, rather than alternatives that have clear and measurable boundaries. Thus, the frameworks are suited to interpretive research where thick description can be used to illustrate viewpoints about which of these ...
