This is really about it. A very important point is this: No matter what kind of equation you're dealing with -- linear or otherwise -- whatever you do to the one side, you MUST do the exact same thing to the other side!Equations are like little children: You have to be totally, totally fair! You cannot subtract 5 from one side of the equation and forget to do it with another side.

The Numerical Methods for Linear Equations and Matrices
Linear Equations – In this section we solve linear first order differential equations, i.e. differential equations in the form $y' + p(t) y = g(t)$. We give an in depth overview of the process used to solve this type of differential equation as well as a derivation of the formula needed for the integrating factor used in the solution process.

The solution is not ordinarily obtained by computing the inverse of 7, that is $7^{-1} = 0.142857...$, and then multiplying 7^{-1} by 21. This would be more work and, if 7^{-1} is represented to a finite number of digits, less accurate. Similar considerations apply to sets of linear equations with more than one unknown; MATLAB ® solves such equations without computing the inverse of the matrix.
